JOHN C. O'DONNELL

O'DONNELL NEW DEM CHAIRMAN

Sawyer Leader Elected Head of Executive Committee by Acclamation.

With their primary campaign differences apparently settled, Richland county Democrats elected John C. O'Donnell, Mansfield attorney, as their executive committee chairman Saturday afternoon and pledged their full support to Charles Sawyer, the party's candidate for governor.

Atty. O'Donnell was chosen by acclamation after E. B. Kallmerten, chairman for the past two years, withdrew and urged the election of O'Donnell, who was a Sawyer campaign leader during the recent primary. O'Donnell was nominated by G. A. Baer, chairman of the central committee.

The committee's action placed the two leaders of the Sawyer movement in Richland county at the head of the party's central and executive committees. Baer, the county Sawyer campaign chairman, was elected chairman of the central committee a week ago.

John F. Correll, another Sawyer backer in the primary campaign, was elected secretary-treasurer of the executive committee over Thomas J. Metcalf, by a vote of 58 to 19. Correll is president of the (Continued on Page 5, Col. 6)

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Three masked men escaped with $3,176 from the Fairmount creamery here today after forcing two employees to lie on the floor with their eyes closed.

Arnold Peterson, creamery manager, said the day's deposit was being made up when the men entered.

"They came in with two revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun and ordered us to lie down and close our eyes," Peterson said. "While we lay on the floor they rifled the cash register and money drawers."

PAID 'CLOSE NOTE'

Knew of Reputation of Gang, Ex-Employee of Hotel Testifies.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Charles W. Hughes, formerly assistant manager of the Hotel Barnum in Bridgeport, Conn., testified today that in 1935 he frequently saw Tammany Leader James J. Hines in company with the late "Dutch" Schultz and members of the gangster's mob.

Hines is on trial accused of having acted as the paid political "fixer" of the Schultz syndicate in the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket in Harlem.

Saw Hines Many Times.

"I saw Hines many times walking through the hotel lobby to the elevator and in the barber shop," Hughes said.

He testified Schultz and his lieutenants also were there.

Hughes said he is now a salesman and lives in Gardner, Mass. He said he formerly was a clerk and then an assistant manager at the Hotel Barnum in Bridgeport.

He identified photographs of "Dutch" Schultz, George Weinberg, one of Schultz's chief lieutenants, "Lulu" Rosenkrantz, the gang leader's bodyguard, and J. Richard ("Dixie") Davis, the mob's "mouthpiece."

"Look around this court and see if you know anyone else," suggested District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

Hughes gazed about and then, pointing to Hines, said: "This gentleman with the glasses."

Hughes testified he saw Schultz "many times" in the hotel and in the lobby.

"I saw Davis and Weinberg a few times and Rosenkrantz many times," he added.

PAID PARTICULAR NOTE.

He said he saw Hines in the lobby, going into the elevator, in the barber shop and seated in the dining room "at Dutch Schultz's table."

Hughes said yes he had paid particular attention to Schultz and his associates. He explained: "As a matter of business we would pay attention. Being a nationally known criminal Schultz impressed himself on the minds of the average man in the hotel."

Hughes said he often saw Schultz, Davis, Weinberg and Rosenkrantz with Hines in the lobby.

Taking the witness over for cross-examination, Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker wanted Hughes to fix the time when he said he saw Hines there with the gangsters.

"It was while Schultz was there," replied the witness.

Asked if he knew Schultz, Hughes said: "Just around the hotel."

The witness said yes, it was a good hotel.

TWO STATES TO GIVE NEW DEAL TEST TUESDAY

California and South Carolina Primaries Decide Power of Administration.

SMITH SCORED AGAIN

President Repeats His Desire for Johnston Victory in Southern State.

(By Associated Press)

Democratic senatorial primaries in South Carolina and California will bring a double test of administration strength tomorrow, for President Roosevelt has indicated his favorites in both contests.

Sen. William G. McAdoo of California received President Roosevelt's endorsement last month. Mr. Roosevelt made it clear last night that he preferred nomination of Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina to a sixth term for Sen. Ellison D. Smith, who has fought some administration measures.

In California, Senator McAdoo is opposed by John W. Preston, who says he is "no rubber stamp." Sheridan Downey, advocate of the Townsend pension program, and James W. Mellen, an avowed anti-New Dealer.

Pensions Major Issue.

Downey's proposal for a $30-a-week pension to Californians over 50 has been one of the major campaign issues. Mr. Roosevelt expressed his disapproval of the scheme last week, and McAdoo also opposes it.

Besides issuing his South Carolina statement, the president disclosed last night that he would speak in Maryland on Labor day, presumably in support of Rep. David J. Lewis, who is trying to unseat Sen. Millard Tydings.

Mr. Roosevelt has advocated the defeat of Tydings, Sen. Walter George of Georgia, and Rep. John O'Connor of New York. The latter won the support yesterday of the president's distant cousin, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican.

Choosing Delegates.

Connecticut Democrats today were choosing delegates who will select their senatorial nominee at a convention next month. Sen. Augustine Lonergan, critic of some Roosevelt policies, is opposed by Rep. Herman P. Kopplemann and Archibald McNeil, former national committeeman. Both the latter are New Dealers.

The physician who attended her said Mrs. Michael suffered a crushed skull and concussion of the brain. She underwent an operation to remove a piece of the skull that was driven into her brain by the blow. Her condition was reported as "fair" at the hospital.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon on a Huron beach where a group of Mansfield people were attending a picnic. Mrs. Michael was sitting on the beach when struck by a bat that had slipped from the hands of a person playing ball on the beach, members of the party said.

RENEWS EFFORT TO AVERT WAR IN CENTRAL EUROPE

Expected To Tell Hitler He Must Give Favorable Response To Her Stand On Side of Czechs In Case of Aggression By Germany.

LONDON — (INS) — Abandoning plans for a holiday at his Bavarian mountain retreat, Chancellor Hitler arrived unexpectedly today at Kehl, Germany, just across the border from Strasbourg, according to a Reuter dispatch from the French frontier town. The frontier between Strasbourg and Kehl was immediately closed and all traffic suspended.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — The immediate peace of all Europe hung in the balance once again today as Great Britain pressed upon Nazi Germany the urgent need for a favorable response to her warning that aggression in Czechoslovakia will mean a general European war, with England fighting on the side of democracy.

To bolster this warning, high ranking officials of the British government launched upon a series of important diplomatic conversations aimed at inducing Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to heed the sharp warning sounded by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon at Lanark, Scotland, Saturday.

If he does so, it is believed the Czech crisis will blow over for the present.

If not, it is feared Europe faces the most destructive war in history.

Following a morning of diplomatic discussions, it was authoritatively announced that Britain's attitude remains one of hopefulness that everyone concerned will be prepared to make contributions toward a satisfactory settlement.

Meanwhile, it was said, Britain is continuing to use her best efforts in that direction.

Belief that a peaceful gesture by Hitler would eliminate the possibility of war for the time being was predicted on the firm British belief that the Sudeten Germans themselves, if relieved of pressure by the fuhrer, will agree to discuss the new minority proposals.

Japanese Blockade on Yangtse Imperils U. S. Gunboat

SHIP SHAKEN BY MINES ON UPPER RIVER

Commander Warns Nippon
She Will Be Held Responsible
for Damages, Ignored.

(By United Press)
SHANGHAI—The United States gunboat Monocacy, with 45 officers and men aboard, is in grave danger in the upper Yangtse river where it is held by a Japanese blockade, it was learned today.

Several mines have exploded within 80 yards of the gunboat. The ship has been badly shaken and has been sprayed—though without damage—by mine fragments. Gunners aboard the Monocacy have tried vainly, it was understood, to detonate mines which began to float dangerously near. At present, reports say, the little ship is encircled with pontoons designed to detonate mines.

Warning Ignored.
Lieut. Com. Clarence V. Conlan, commanding the Monocacy, protested to the Japanese that his government would hold the Japanese government responsible for any "mishap."

The Japanese consulate ignored Conlan's protest, it was said, and warned him curtly that the Japanese navy would not accept any responsibility because the Monocacy was in a danger zone.

There was growing concern in diplomatic quarters here, because of the peculiar circumstances of the situation, lest another Panay incident occur.

(The U. S. gunboat Panay was sunk in the Yangtse above Nanking last December by Japanese airplanes. Japan accepted responsibility and paid indemnity.—Ed.)

Blockaded for Weeks.
For weeks now the Monocacy has been held three miles below Kiukiang, more than 450 miles up the twisting Yangtse, because of a Japanese blockade maintained most rigidly in the stretch above Wuhu.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, United States navy commander in chief in China, recently asked the Japanese formally for permission for the Monocacy to steam down river and for the gunboat Oahu, stationed here, to relieve it. The Japanese formally refused.

However, the Oahu has been moved so it can proceed up the river if ordered to do so by the state department.

Tents Go Up As Fair's Visitors Arrive To Stay

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Those rural families who turn the State fair into a week's camping vacation came to town today.

They swelled the crowd which Director of Agriculture Earl H. Hanefeld expected to reach 50,000, and their tents and trailers were fastened down to stay until judgment is passed on the last head of livestock and last jar of jelly.

The 88th annual fair opened Saturday to a crowd of about 40,000.

City officials paid their official visit to the fair this morning and toured the exhibits. Met at the main entrance by the 300-piece All-Ohio boys' band, they were expected to spend most of the day on the grounds, attending the opening of the harness races this afternoon.

The horse show, six-night feature of the exposition, was launched last night, with Ohioans taking most of the blue ribbons.

Up and Down THE STREET

Bob Enos has a large gleaming trophy to show for his prowess on the tennis court today but he might hesitate at showing it. Enos, who won The News-Journal singles title Sunday, was presented with a trophy emblematic of the city championship after his victory, but the trophy bore the statuette of a feminine player. It was a bit embarrassing, Bob admitted, after the presentation. The male figure statuette for the trophy was broken in shipment, and the feminine figure was substituted for the presentation ceremony.

Mansfield isn't a lake city but it will be represented when communities bordering Lake Erie commemorate the 125th anniversary of Commodore Perry's victory over the British fleet in 1813. The band and girls' drum and bugle corps of Mansfield high school will play at Put-in-Bay Friday afternoon, Sept. 9, and will march in the parade at Sandusky that night. The celebration will be staged Sept. 8, 9, and 10.

A "belling" from the air, even before the wedding ceremony was over, was staged for Mr. and Mrs. H. Ducker Gyber yesterday afternoon at the bride's home near Big Prairie. Henry Cunningham, Mansfield's "flying postman," and Frank Winters, a city mail carrier, flew over the home of the bride, formerly Miss Virginia Allenman, and dropped strands of paper and a tiny parachute, carrying a note of congratulations. The postmen, however, couldn't find a place to land and had to return to Mansfield for their automobile before they could join the reception which followed the ceremony.

A "seeing eye" dog attracted attention Sunday morning on West Fourth street between Park drive and Helen avenue. The dog, a German shepherd, and named at the famous Seeing Eye institution at Morris-town, N. J., belongs to Attorney Winfield Alexander of Madison, Wis., who with Mrs. Alexander, was visiting Dr. and Mrs. Roy Rehder, West Park drive. Alexander has been blind since he was 16 and had never been in Mansfield, but he went for a walk by himself with only his "seeing eye" to guide him. California, or Cal, is not a trained dog, but an educated one who is trained for use by the blind. He responds immediately to "right," "left," and "forward," and also recognizes the streets he has crossed or passed.

Acquisition of Times-Press of Beacon-Journal Announced by Scripps-Howard.

AKRON—The Akron Beacon Journal today took over the Akron Times-Press properties as a result of a consolidation in which the Times-Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, suspended publication. The consolidation left only one newspaper in the field here. The Beacon, which previously published evenings only, will now also publish Sunday editions. John S. Knight is president of the Beacon Journal organization. Announcement of the sale of the Times-Press to the Beacon was made by Louis B. Seltzer, editor-in-chief of the Scripps-Howard papers in Ohio. The Times-Press published its last editions Sunday.

Seltzer's announcement said the Beacon Journal would be published from the plant which the Times-Press erected and had occupied since 1930.

The Times-Press is the second Scripps-Howard paper to suspend publication in Ohio during recent weeks. The Scripps newspaper at Toledo, the News-Bee, suspended publication earlier this month. The Scripps newspaper organization now has three papers in Ohio, the Cleveland Press, the Columbus Citizen and the Cincinnati Post.

DAVEY CONTINUES TO 'KEEP 'EM GUESSING' ABOUT FALL CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS—Ohio politicians still shook their heads today, wondering when, if ever, Gov. Martin

L. Davey would define definitely his stand on the autumn campaign.

Some had hoped there might be an indication of the governor's attitude in his speech Saturday night before the State League of Young Democrats at Buckeye lake.

But the executive said only:

"This pitcher is going to try to keep his arm in shape merely to help Democracy."

He made no reference to Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, who blasted Davey's ambitions for a third term by winning the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the recent primary.

"I got a vacation I didn't ask for," the governor said in his first public address since the election. "In other words, the manager of the team sent me back to the tree business and try to make a little money."

"I hope you won't forget that I still live in Ohio and shall always welcome invitations to be with you."

The Young Democrats heard Charles West, contact man for President Roosevelt on Capitol Hill, laud "the fine spirit of sportsmanship shown by defeated candidates."

Sawyer addressed the outing yesterday and urged the group to "place the vigorous idealism of youth at the service of the state."

Assigned as new pastor of the Bucyrus church was Rev. E. H. Lewis from the Calvary Evangelical church of Toledo. Rev. Lewis succeeds Rev. Ervin Kauffman who was assigned as pastor of the Baltimore, O., church. Rev. H. V. Falor of New Zion was named new pastor of the Polk church.

Rev. Deninger, who was elected delegate to the general conference, was formerly pastor of the South Main Street Evangelical church here. The conference will be held Oct. 6 to 16 at Johnstown, Pa.

Attending the Fremont conference from Mansfield were Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of the Main Street Evangelical church, and Birdsell Lawrence, a lay delegate from the church. Others who attended from near here were Rev. E. T. Shepard of Johnsville, Rev. R. A. Krisher of Butler, and Rev. P. E. Smoke of Ashland.

HURLS CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY IN SETTLEMENT

Coal Workers and Operators Sign Up; Labor Charges to Be Dropped.

(By Associated Press)
HARLAN, Ky.—An agreement between the United Mine Workers of America and the Harlan County Coal Operators' association bore today the approval of union members and the distaste of William Green.

Green, A. F. of L. president, termed the agreement a "brazen and unlawful alliance" and said a complaint would be filed with the National Labor Relations Board, which he charged with a part in a "conspiracy" to violate the Wagner act for its reported sanction of the contract.

At a meeting yesterday 111 delegates from 37 U. M. W. locals in this area ratified the agreement, which was signed by attorneys for the CIO union and the operators' association at Cincinnati Saturday.

Apparently in reply to Green's statement he had reports the justice department would not seek retrial of the conspiracy indictments against Harlan operators and others, Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon, chief government counsel at the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial, said in Washington he had made "no commitments of any kind or character" to "any representative of the Harlan County Coal Operators' association looking to the disposition of the case."

Claims Union Barred.

Green contended at the A. F. of L. executive council session at Atlantic City, N. J., that the agreement, covering wages, hours and working conditions, denied the rival Progressive Miners of America (A. F. of L.) their right to organize in Harlan county.

Philip G. Phillips, regional labor board director, said at Cincinnati "for the first time in their existence Harlan county workers may join any union to which they want to belong." He said the agreement did not call for a closed shop.

The pact provided that the labor board will "dismiss finally" U. M. W. charges of unfair labor practices against the operators.

The contract brings into relation with the U. M. W. all the 17 companies which were defendants with 39 individuals in the recent trial at London, Ky., of criminal charges of conspiring to prevent unionization. A mistrial was declared when the jury could not agree.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Does South Resent
North's Efforts to Help
Cure Its Economic Ills?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There is something about the south, a firm but elusive reserve, which always gives a northern man to feel that he has two strikes on him in any attempt to discuss any southern problem.

It is somewhat as though the south were a secret society, cordial and gracious to visitors on guest nights, but guardful of its inner business and quick to resent prying or even consultation on southern problems.

There is no need to seek the reason, for we all know what the south suffered at the hands of the plundering hypocrites who compelled the organization of the original Ku Klux Klan and established a suspicion of northerners and their motives, which exists to this day.

But a long time has passed, people travel now, and it seems not too pushful to suggest that the south no longer is a Tibet whose councils are not to be invaded or problems understood by northern men of equal intelligence. South-east men and women come north and, after a short period for acquaintance and adjustment, find themselves fully privileged members of the community.

I have no desire to invade the south, for my base is here, and I get along all right, but if the southern states felt sufficiently informed on our northern customs and feelings to command that we abolish alcohol, it surely is no worse intrusion by a northerner to offer an occasional opinion on southern problems.

The south almost got even with us with prohibition. Just as the slaves were freed without compensation to their owners, the property values of northern distilleries and breweries were ruined by the foul amendment. The workers in many subsidiary lines of the beverage trade, and, I suppose, to some extent, the growers, were similarly wronged in 1919 by a law pressed on us by the south.

It is not that I have any special desire to sound off at the moment on a particular matter of southern business. It is merely that

The loudest nuisance in all New York could not yell big enough to disturb the peace 'way down in Georgia, although I must say I met a few Mason-Jar Georgians in those days who could have spanned the distance in two hoots and, maybe, a whisper.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Sound progressed on the screen as technicians mastered the problem of extraneous noises—and the squawkies became talkies.

Look into the one sound stage Hollywood had ten years ago. With the help of Major Nathan Levinson, then and now in charge of the Warner Bros. sound department, we can do this:

It's a forbidding hulk of concrete. Its inner walls are heavily insulated with rock wool and composition board (celotex) to prevent reverberation and assure soundproofing.

The set where the actors will perform is small. Before it, in glass-front booths each about eight feet square, are imprisoned cameramen and cameramen. Nearby, connected with the camera booths by electrical lines, is the sound booth, occupied by the "sound mixer" and his equipment. It too has a glass front, is shut tight against air and sound. These booths are veritable Black Holes of Calcutta, hot and breathless. After each "take" the men rush out, gasping for air.

Sound Man Rules.
Suspended from pulleys overhead are several microphones.

DIES AT HOME
Mrs. Ida Mae Johnson Succumbs In Ashland After Long Illness.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Ida Mae Johnson, a resident of the city 15 years, died at her home here today after an extended illness. She was a native of Rockville, Ind., and a member of the Methodist church of that city and the Eastern Star. There are no immediate survivors.

Services will be held at the Gilbert funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Miles Snyder officiating. Burial will be in Terre Haute, Ind.

INFANT GIRL DIES
Funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Grant, who died at the home in Vermillion Sunday, will be held at the Wampler funeral home at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday with Rev. Milton Englehart, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Mrs. Grant is the former Catherine Hall of Mansfield.

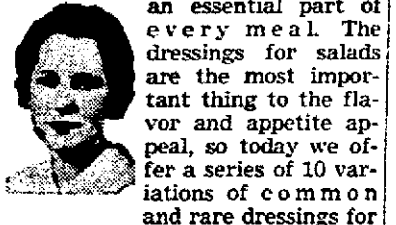

It was two years before Hollywood began to throw off the production tyranny of the sound technician—a revolt made possible through developments by these same technicians.

A visit to any sound stage today reveals the extent of this freedom from domination by the microphone and its masters.

Variations Of Dressings For Salads

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
(Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company)

Although with the passing of summer the demand for salad meals will wane, modern dietetics now makes the salad an essential part of every meal. The dressings for salads are the most important thing to the flavor and appetite appeal, so today we offer a series of 10 variations of common and rare dressings for the crisp addition to your meals.

To bring out new and delightful taste thrills in your favorite salad dressings, do not overlook the flavor giving qualities of honey, chili sauce, and horseradish used in these ten variations.

1. French Dressing: Add 1/4 cup French dressing to 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

2. Honey: Add 2 tablespoons honey to 1 cup mayonnaise. For fruits.

3. Russian Dressing: Fold 1/4 cup chili sauce and 2 tablespoons pickle relish into 1 cup mayonnaise.

4. Tomato: Cut peeled, firm, but ripe tomatoes into cubes and drain thoroughly. Just before serving the salad add 1 cup of the tomato cubes, salted lightly, to 1 cup of mayonnaise. One teaspoon minced onion may be added. Good on lettuce, cucumbers, cabbage and all green salads.

5. Grapefruit: To 1/2 cup mayonnaise add 1/4 cup grapefruit juice, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar. Marvelous in salad bowl containing lettuce, orange and grapefruit segments and balls of avocado.

6. Cream cheese: Crumble 1/2 package cream cheese in 1 cup French dressing.

7. Roquefort Cheese: Crumble from 2 to 4 tablespoons Roquefort cheese into 1 cup French dressing.

8. Horseradish: To 1/2 cup French dressing add 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish.

9. Olive: To 1/2 cup French dressing add 1/4 cup olives, sliced thin. Green or ripe olives may be used. Bits of avocado may be added.

10. Pineapple Dressing. Pineapple juice, canned, 1 1/2 cups

Sugar, 1/4 cup
Cornstarch, 2 tablespoons
Egg yolks, 4
Lemon juice, 1/4 cup
Celery salt, a dash
Salt, 1/4 teaspoon

1. Heat 1 1/2 cups of the unsweetened pineapple juice over hot water.

2. Mix the remaining 1/4 cup pineapple juice with the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir into the hot juice and cook, stirring constantly until the dressing is clear.

3. Beat the egg yolks and stir them into the dressing slowly; continue cooking and stirring until the dressing is thick.

4. Remove from the heat and add 1/4 cup lemon juice or the amount desired to please the taste. Chill. Whipped cream usually is folded into this dressing at serving time. For fruit salads.

Yield: Approximately 2 cups.

Want to make less expensive cuts of meat more tender and easier to cook? Pound them well or score the meat both sides with a knife. These processes loosen the tendons a bit and release the food juices and flavor. Brown the meat all over quickly in a small amount of fat, then cook it at a low temperature until it is tender.

'Certified Performance' New Feature of Tappan Ranges

Cooperation between the gas industry and the Tappan Stove company has produced the new Certified Performance gas range which embodies 22 required performance features, according to an announcement made this morning by Alan Tappan, official of the Tappan Stove company.

"These new C. P. ranges are the result of the combined effort of research authorities, engineers, market technicians and style designers of the gas industry. They provide the consumer with a range planned along lines of greater efficiency, improved convenience and one assuring better cooking results," Tappan stated.

Some of the outstanding features of this new range are the automatic lighting equipment for all burners which absolutely eliminates the match from the top of the kitchen stove, automatic heat control, scientifically designed simmer burners, and thoroughly insulated oven.

For the broiled steak addict the larger broiler with its smokeless pans makes the range indispensable. Another feature to be welcomed by the housekeeper is the new type rust-proof top burner which not only simplifies cleaning, but which also eliminates sooty, grimy pan bottoms. Stops, which automatically prevent that messy boiling over, and roller bearings on all utensil drawers are two of the Note to Tom Sawyer: Surfaces to be whitewashed should first be well cleaned and freed of any particles that might scale off. Scrub with a stiff brush or broom. White-wash adheres to moist surfaces better than it does to dry ones. So sponge off the area to be white-washed with cold water.

Heat Nuts

A little heating often will improve the flavor of nut meats in summer. Sprinkle a thin layer of nuts on a shallow pan and heat them for five minutes or so in a moderately slow oven. Cool.

Whipped Cream

It is best to whip no more than two cups of cream at a time. Chill bowl and beater. If the cream is beaten in a warm bowl in a warm place it is apt to turn to butter.

Kitchen Hints

Want some juice-appetizers? Try the following juice combinations: Tomato and clam, tomato and pineapple, grapefruit and orange, grapefruit and grape juice, lemon and cherry, apple and pineapple, prune and orange, raspberry and lemon, and grapefruit and cherry—with a bit of chopped mint.

Brighten up the sun porch this fall by using gaily-colored awning materials for shades on the windows and doors. The material is not expensive. You can tack it onto the regular window shade rollers quite easily. Add fringe as a special decorative touch.

Let the dirt around a potted plant come within half an inch of the top of the pot. Then fill the pot with water every day for the average house plant. If you have unusual plants, ask your florist about the amount of water they need.

For a different appetizer or salad try an alligator pear-tomato combination. Cut both into thin slices, marinate in French dressing and chill for an hour. Sprinkle with lemon juice and serve on salad greens.

Add six whole cloves, one teaspoon of cinnamon and a tablespoonful of lemon juice to two cups of dice pineapple, chill for several hours, then remove the cloves at serving time.

Metal teapots sometimes give a "musty" flavor to tea made in them. To prevent this, store a lump of sugar in the pot. When you're ready to use the pot rinse it in boiling water.

To facilitate the removal of frozen foods from refrigerator trays, line each tray with waxed paper before filling it. When the food is frozen, lift it out by the edges of the paper. The paper may then be torn off easily.

Cocktail tidbit: Make one-inch cheese-riced croquettes. Fry them in deep fat. While they are piping hot stick them on wooden picks and arrange them as the outside layer of a tray of assorted canapes.

Does your bathing cap tend to stick together? When it gets dry, rub it with a soft cloth dipped in glycerine.

Cold fish and egg canapes are improved if they are chilled before they are served. Place them on a tray. Cover them with waxed paper and leave them in the refrigerator for at least 30 minutes.

Remove the creak from doors and bureau drawers by rubbing them with hard soap.

Want something especially tasty for picnics around the camp fire? Broil or brown thin slices of ham. Be sure there are plenty of pickles handy.

Install Modern Automatic GAS HEAT In Your Home

LONG hours of back breaking shoveling certainly doesn't belong in the category of modern household duties. Yet, if you would total up the time spent in tending an out-moded furnace in one winter, you'd be shocked at the many wearisome hours put in. Life is too short — home is too sweet for such household slavery.

This winter, you can remove the shackles of time-worn heating methods forever — by installing modern gas heat. No more fuss or muss. No more teeter-totter temperatures. No more hidden heating costs. The one and ONLY bill for gas heat is no more than the many expenses — fuel and incidental — resulting from old-fashioned methods. Don't spend another winter of your life working at a furnace. Let automatic gas heat take over the job.

GET A FREE HEATING SURVEY

Phone The Gas Company today for a free heating survey. This survey takes into consideration all the factors that influence the heating of your home. From them it furnishes a reliable estimate of what gas will cost you. It, also, includes an inspection of your present heating plant. No charge — no obligation for this free service.

Japanese Blockade on Yangtse Imperils U. S. Gunboat

SHIP SHAKEN BY MINES ON UPPER RIVER

Commander Warns Nippon
She Will Be Held Responsible
for Damages, Ignored.

(By United Press)
SHANGHAI—The United States gunboat Monocacy, with 45 officers and men aboard, is in grave danger in the upper Yangtse river where it is held by a Japanese blockade, it was learned today.

Several mines have exploded within 80 yards of the gunboat. The ship has been badly shaken and has been sprayed—though without damage—by mine fragments. Gunners aboard the Monocacy have tried vainly, it was understood, to detonate mines which began to float dangerously near. At present, reports say, the little ship is encircled with pontoons designed to detonate mines.

Warning Ignored.
Lieut. Com. Clarence V. Conlan, commanding the Monocacy, protested to the Japanese that his government would hold the Japanese government responsible for any "misstep."

The Japanese consulate ignored Conlan's protest, it was said, and warned him curtly that the Japanese navy would not accept any responsibility because the Monocacy was in a danger zone.

There was growing concern in diplomatic quarters here, because of the peculiar circumstances of the situation, lest another Panay incident occur.

(The U. S. gunboat Panay was sunk in the Yangtse above Nanking last December by Japanese airplanes. Japan accepted responsibility and paid indemnity.—Ed.)

Blockaded for Weeks.
For weeks now the Monocacy has been held three miles below Kiukiang, more than 450 miles up the twisting Yangtse, because of a Japanese blockade maintained most rigidly in the stretch above Wuhu.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, United States navy commander in chief in China, recently asked the Japanese formally for permission for the Monocacy to steam down river and for the gunboat Oahu, stationed here, to relieve it. The Japanese formally refused.

However, the Oahu has been moved so it can proceed up the river if ordered to do so by the state department.

Tents Go Up As Fair's Visitors Arrive To Stay

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Those rural families who turn the State fair into a week's camping vacation came to town today.

They swelled the crowd which Director of Agriculture Earl H. Mansfield expected to reach 50,000, and their tents and trailers were fastened down to stay until judgment is passed on the last head of livestock and last jar of jelly.

The 88th annual fair opened Saturday to a crowd of about 40,000. City officials paid their official visit to the fair this morning and toured the exhibits. Met at the main entrance by the 300-piece All-Ohio boys' band, they were expected to spend most of the day on the grounds, attending the opening of the harness races this afternoon.

The horse show, six-night feature of the exposition, was launched last night, with Ohioans taking most of the blue ribbons.

OLD-TIME BALL PLAYERS FROLIC

Veterans Form Permanent Organization at Picnic Sunday.

A permanent organization headed by Carl Maul was formed by Mansfield old-time baseball players at a picnic at Spiker's grove Sunday.

In addition to Maul, elected president, the new officers are Bruce Friday, vice president; R. H. Stevens, secretary, and Clarence Hynson, treasurer. The executive committee consists of Jeff Holmquist, chairman; Tim Murphy, Robert Henry, Harry Boyd and Lloyd Schmunk. The organization will take an active part in the promotion of sports events, Maul said.

The annual picnic yesterday was featured by a baseball game, won by a team managed by Holmquist over one headed by Hynson by a score of 8 to 7.

UP and DOWN THE STREET

Bob Enos has a large gleaming trophy to show for his prowess on the tennis court today but he might hesitate at showing it. Enos, who won The News-Journal singles title Sunday, was presented with a trophy emblematic of the city championship after his victory, but the trophy bore the statuette of a feminine player. It was a bit embarrassing, Bob admitted, after the presentation. The male figure statuette for the trophy was broken in shipment, and the feminine figure was substituted for the presentation ceremony.

Mansfield isn't a lake city but it will be represented when communities bordering Lake Erie commemorate the 125th anniversary of Commodore Perry's victory over the British fleet in 1813. The band and girls' drum and bugle corps of Mansfield high school will play at Put-In-Bay Friday afternoon, Sept. 9, and will march in the parade at Sandusky that night. The celebration will be staged Sept. 8, 9, and 10.

A "belling" from the air, even before the wedding ceremony was over, was staged for Mr. and Mrs. H. Ducker Gyber yesterday afternoon at the bride's home near Big Prairie. Henry Cunningham, Mansfield's "flying postman," and Frank Winters, a city mail carrier, flew over the home of the bride, formerly Miss Virginia Alleman, and dropped strands of paper and a tiny parachute, carrying a note of congratulations. The postmen, however, couldn't find a place to land and had to return to Mansfield for their automobile before they could join the reception which followed the ceremony.

A "seeing eye" dog attracted attention Sunday morning on West Fourth street between Park drive and Helen avenue. The dog, a German shepherd, and trained at the famous Seeing Eye Institution at Morris-town, N. J., belongs to Attorney Winfield Alexander of Madison, Wis., who with Mrs. Alexander, was visiting Dr. and Mrs. Roy Rehder, West Park drive. Alexander has been blind since he was 16 and had never been in Mansfield, but he went for a walk by himself with only his "seeing eye" to guide him. California, or Cal, is not a trained dog, but an educated one who is trained for use by the blind. He responds immediately to "right," "left," and "forward," and also recognizes the streets he has crossed or passed.

LEAVES AKRON WITH ONE PAPER

Acquisition of Times-Press of Beacon-Journal Announced by Scripps-Howard.

AKRON—The Akron Beacon Journal today took over the Akron Times-Press properties as a result of a consolidation in which the Times-Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, suspended publication. The consolidation left only one newspaper in the field here. The Beacon, which previously published evenings only, will now also publish Sunday editions. The Times-Press was published daily and Sunday.

John S. Knight is president of the Beacon Journal organization. Announcement of the sale of the Times-Press to the Beacon was made by Louis B. Seltzer, editor-in-chief of the Scripps-Howard papers in Ohio. The Times-Press published its last editions Sunday.

Seltzer's announcement said the Beacon Journal would be published from the plant which the Times-Press erected and had occupied since 1930.

The Times-Press is the second Scripps-Howard paper to suspend publication in Ohio during recent weeks. The Scripps newspaper at Toledo, the News-Bee, suspended publication earlier this month. The Scripps newspaper organization now has three papers in Ohio, the Cleveland Press, the Columbus Citizen and the Cincinnati Post.

SEC Sues 'Big Guns' Up For Proceedings Against Utility.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The securities and exchange commission today set in motion the drastic "death sentence" machinery of the holding company act, opening formal proceedings against the $303,000,000 utilities power and light corporation.

Initiating public hearings, the commission will seek a plan calling for simplification of the sprawling power empire into a compact utilities unit. The company now operates approximately two dozen subsidiaries in 12 states.

DAVEY CONTINUES TO 'KEEP 'EM GUESSING' ABOUT FALL CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS—Ohio politicians still shook their heads today, wondering when, if ever, Gov. Martin

Some had hoped there might be an indication of the governor's attitude in his speech Saturday night before the State League of Young Democrats at Buckeye lake.

But the executive said only:

"This pitcher is going to try to keep his arm in shape merely to help Democracy."

He made no reference to Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, who blasted Davey's ambitions for a third term by winning the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the recent primary.

"I got a vacation I didn't ask for," the governor said in his first public address since the election. "In other words, the manager of the team sent me back to the bench. I am going back to the tree business and try to make a little money."

The Young Democrats heard Charles West, contact man for President Roosevelt, on Capitol Hill, laud "the fine spirit of sportsmanship shown by defeated candidates."

Sawyer addressed the outing yesterday and urged the group to "place the vigorous idealism of youth at the service of the state."

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Judge Roy H. Williams of the Ohio Supreme court was installed yesterday as supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose.

HURLS CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY IN SETTLEMENT

Coal Workers and Operators Sign Up; Labor Charges to Be Dropped.

(By Associated Press)

HARLAN, Ky.—An agreement between the United Mine Workers of America and the Harlan County Coal Operators association bore today the approval of union members and the distaste of William Green.

Green, A. F. of L. president, termed the agreement a "brazen and unlawful alliance" and said a complaint would be filed with the National Labor Relations Board, which he charged with a part in a "conspiracy" to violate the Wagner act for its reported sanction of the contract.

At a meeting yesterday 111 delegates from 37 U. M. W. locals in this area ratified the agreement, which was signed by attorneys for the CIO union and the operators association at Cincinnati Saturday.

Apparently in reply to Green's statement he had reports the justice department would not seek retrial of the conspiracy indictments against Harlan operators and others, Assistant Attorney General Bruce McMahon, chief government counsel at the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial, said in Washington he had made "no commitments of any kind or character" to "any representative of the Harlan County Coal Operators association looking to the disposition of the case."

Claims Union Barred.

Green contended at the A. F. of L. executive council session at Atlantic City, N. J., that the agreement, covering wages, hours and working conditions, denied the rival Progressive Miners of America (A. F. of L.) their right to organize in Harlan county.

Philip G. Phillips, regional labor board director, said at Cincinnati "for the first time in their existence Harlan county workers may join any union to which they want to belong." He said the agreement did not call for a closed shop.

The pact provided that the labor board will "dismiss finally" U. M. W. charges of unfair labor practices against the operators.

The contract brings into relation with the U. M. W. all the 17 companies which were defendants with 39 individuals in the recent trial at London, Ky., of criminal charges of conspiring to prevent unionization. A mistrial was declared when the jury could not agree.

Why Does South Resent
North's Efforts to Help
Cure Its Economic Ills?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There is something about the south, a firm but elusive reserve, which always gives a northern man to feel that he has two strikes on him in any attempt to discuss any southern problem.

It is somewhat as though the south were a secret society, cordial and gracious to visitors on guest nights, but guardful of its inner business and quick to resent prying or even consultation on southern problems.

There is no need to seek the reason, for we all know what the south suffered at the hands of the plundering hypocrites who compelled the organization of the original Ku Klux Klan and established a suspicion of northerners and their motives, which exists to this day.

But a long time has passed, people travel now, and it seems not too pushful to suggest that the south no longer is a Tibet whose councils are not to be invaded or problems understood by northern men of equal intelligence. Southern men and women come north and, after a short period for acquaintance and adjustment, find themselves fully privileged members of the community.

I have no desire to invade the south, for my base is here, and I get along all right, but if the southern states felt sufficiently informed on our northern customs and feelings to command that we abolish alcohol, it surely is no worse intrusion by a northerner to offer an occasional opinion on southern problems.

The south almost got even with us with prohibition. Just as the slaves were freed without compensation to their owners, the property values of northern distilleries and breweries were ruined by the foul amendment. The workers in many subsidiary lines of the beverage trade, and, I suppose, to some extent, the growers, were similarly wronged in 1919 by a law pressed on us by the south.

It is not that I have any special desire to sound off at the moment on a particular matter of southern business. It is merely that

The loudest nuisance in all New York could not yell big enough to disturb the peace 'way down in Georgia, although I must say I met a few Mason-jar Georgians in those days who could have spanned the distance in two hoots and, maybe, a whisper.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Sound progressed on the screen as technicians mastered the problem of extraneous noises—and the squawkies became talkies.

Look into the one sound stage Hollywood had ten years ago. With the help of Major Nathan Levinson, then and now in charge of the Warner Bros. sound department, we can do this:

It's a forbidding hulk of concrete. Its inner walls are heavily insulated with rock wool and composition board (celotex) to prevent reverberation and assure soundproofing.

The set where the actors will perform is small. Before it, in glass-front booths each about eight feet square, are imprisoned cameras and cameramen. Nearby, connected with the camera booths by electrical lines, is the sound booth, occupied by the "sound mixer" and his equipment. It too has a glass front, is shut tight

They cannot be moved because that would distort the recording, create extraneous noise. The actors, ready for the scene, glance apprehensively at the "mikes." ("Mike-fright" was a disease almost everyone had in those days.)

All right, they're shooting. In deadly quiet, the actors advance cautiously. They glance upward to be sure they are under their respective "mikes." Each in turn speaks his lines. If he moves away, it's too bad. The scene will have to be done again. The slightest unexpected noise can throw the whole set into confusion.

The sound man is monarch of the set. Everybody—director, star, cameraman—consult him. "Can we do this?" "Is this possible?" In this land of "yes-men," his "No" is a commandment.

Sometimes, in this 1928 stage, microphones are planted behind "props" such as a vase of flowers, a row of books, a potted plant, a statue.

It is a wonder that sound films were made at all. The difficulties were numerous, the medium strange. But the results, for the time, were astounding.

Discs Abandoned.
In those days the Warners used the sound-on-disc system of recording, similar to the ordinary phonograph record. The other studios used the sound-on-film, already employed experimentally in Fox newsreels. The "sound track"—or photographed sound waves—was on one reel, the pictures on another, the two later superimposed to become one reel. As early as 1930, however, Warners were abandoning the disc recordings, and now sound-on-film is universal.

It was two years before Hollywood began to throw off the production tyranny of the sound technician—a revolt made possible through developments by these same technicians.

A visit to any sound stage today reveals the extent of this freedom from domination by the microphone and its masters.

Five Convicted in Scottsboro Case Apply After Board Rejects Two Appeals.

(By United Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 28.—Pleas for pardons by five colored persons serving long prison terms on charges of criminal assault on two white women, near Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931, were before Gov. Bibb Graves today following unanimous rejection of two of the applications by the Alabama pardon board.

Only two of the five applications were considered because three of the five may appeal their convictions to the supreme court before but not after Sept. 16. Gov. Graves, who is not required to follow recommendations of the pardon board, said he would not act on the applications until after expiration of the period in which the three may appeal.

The board acted on the pleas of Clarence Norris, serving life and Heywood Patterson, sentenced to 75 years. It followed the recommendation of State Attorney General A. A. Carmichael that it was without authority to rule on the applications of Andy Wright, Charlie Weems and Ozie Powell, all serving long terms.

Carmichael held that the applications of the latter three were presented prematurely in that the period had not expired for them to appeal to the supreme court.

Nine originally were charged with criminal assault. Four were released last year in a compromise after the five convictions had been obtained.

During the past 20 years there has been a continuous increase in bodily injury and property damage automobile insurance premiums by all insurance companies. Every time such an increase occurs, the thousands of policyholders ask almost in unison: "Why are our automobile insurance premiums increased?"

That, contends S. H. Glessner, general manager of the Lincoln Mutual Indemnity company and Continental Automobile Mutual insurance company. Two Mansfield firms, can be explained by looking into the situations that usually arise following an accident and the fact that most owners are not fully aware of the purpose and intent of these coverages and just how they operate.

"First of all it should be borne in mind that these coverages do not insure the other party in event a policy holder is in an accident," Mr. Glessner points out. "They insure him—or in other words the insurance company assumes the policyholder's position and provides him with expert investigation of the accident in order to determine whether or not he is legally responsible for the damage."

"The policy provides that the insurance company may compromise a settlement, if in the policyholder's best interests it deems it advisable. Or it may defend any actions brought against him, such defense being made in his name and in his behalf."

In addition, the insurance company, under the policy and subject to its conditions, agrees to pay any judgment rendered against the driver holding the policy, within the limits stipulated in the policy. This type of policy is for protection in liability and by its terms it requires the policyholder's full cooperation in the protection and defense of his rights and interests.

Frequently during the excitement which usually follows an accident, an individual will make some remark such as: "I am entirely blame and will pay for all of the damage," or "I have insurance which will take care of your damage."

This should never be done, Mr. Glessner points out, whether or not the driver has insurance, because, unless the person involved is an attorney or an expert adjuster, he is not in a position to make even a good guess as to where the legal liability lies in the majority of accidents. Such a remark, also, is apt to make his defense difficult later should a defense become necessary.

"The sensible procedure in the event you do become involved in an accident is to do no talking at the time other than to secure the names and addresses of all witnesses as well as the names and addresses of the other parties involved and to give your name and address to such other parties," the Lincoln and Continental executive says.

"This information should then be transmitted to your insurance company immediately, if you have insurance. If you do not have insurance, the same procedure should be followed, except that if an unjust claim is made against you, it is best that you refer the matter to a good reputable attorney with all the data which you have secured."

It now becomes quite obvious, Mr. Glessner adds, that bodily injury and property damage insurance simply assumes the policyholder's legal liability and requires his full cooperation in his own defense.

"One of the principal causes of high insurance premiums is the failure on the part of the average policyholder to realize and appreciate this with the result that he attempts to assume liability which is not his," Mr. Glessner says.

"He feels that any settlements made are out of the treasury of the insurance company and not out of his pocket, and that it is for this that he paid his insurance premium. Both conclusions are incorrect."

"Payment of unjust claims by the insurance company are taken right out of the policyholder's pocket, because premiums are based upon experience and such payments automatically increase premiums."

Insurance records show that another of the common causes of high automobile insurance premiums is the rendering of sympathy verdicts by present day juries when they learn that the defendant carries insurance.

"The fact that there is insurance in the case should have nothing whatsoever to do with the verdict," Mr. Glessner asserts. "It is the duty of the jury to determine from the evidence and from the charge of the court whether or not the defendant was responsible for the accident, and if responsible, to measure the amount of damage sustained and to render its verdict accordingly."

"Many cases are filed in court, not because the defendant was responsible for the accident but because the plaintiff's case was solicited and filed by a so-called ambulance chasing attorney."

"Jurors should bear in mind, too, when deliberating, that unjust verdicts are actually paid by the jurors themselves as a part of the general insurance public, since the insurance companies are bound to increase their premiums in order to compensate for increased losses."

"Your insurance company wants to pay every penny that it owes, and if obliged to pay no more, there is bound to be a reduction in insurance premiums. However, as long as insurance companies are taken advantage of, premiums are sure to increase."

ENGINEERS TURN ON HEAT IN PEN ROASTING PROBE

Coroner to Get Findings on Degree of Heat Reached in Cell Block.

(By International News Service) PHILADELPHIA—Two engineers appointed by State Secretary of Welfare Charles I. Engard and two state troopers today were to conduct scientific tests in the "isolation" chamber at Holmesburg prison where four striking convicts were literally "roasted" to death last week.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch will examine the experts' findings at a conference later in the day. The convicts, after a three-day strike against food conditions, were placed in a 50 by 15-foot building containing seven long radiators. The steam was turned on, reaching an estimated 200 degrees temperature and four of the 25 inmates died of "asphyctic heat stroke."

From today's tests, Coroner Hersch expects to learn the degree of heat reached when all radiators are turned on. The experiment will round out a week of investigation including questioning of eight Holmesburg prison guards reportedly responsible for placing the prisoners in the isolation.

Inquest Wednesday. "An inquest into the four deaths will be held Wednesday," said Hersch, "and immediately after that at least eight arrests will be made." The coroner declared earlier that investigators knew the name of the man who "ordered" the heat turned on and said his identity would probably be made known at the inquest.

Meanwhile at Harrisburg, Gov. George H. Earle asked a complete report from Coroner Hersch on the alleged "torture" deaths and summoned the coroner and Engard to a conference at the capital today. Hersch declined to attend the meeting, but it was believed Engard would meet later with the governor.

"From newspaper accounts," remarked Governor Earle, "this would seem to be worse than the old torture chambers of the middle ages."

Secretary Engard said he was especially interested in knowing if the isolation cell was planned deliberately as a "roaster" for human beings.

(Continued From Page 1) who was employed at Weinberger's drug store here, received a fracture of the left leg and body cuts and bruises. Miss White suffered lacerations on her head and legs. Feinberg and Nosker suffered only minor injuries, the hospital report said.

The group from Mansfield had attended the wedding of Miss Ida Vincoher, a friend of Mrs. Feinberg, yesterday afternoon and stayed in Cleveland for a reception for the bridal couple last night.

Mrs. Feinberg, who had been married a year, observed her 21st birthday anniversary 11 days ago. State highway patrolmen quoted Nosker, driver of the other car, as saying that "something went wrong with the steering wheel" on his car.

Victims of the other fatal crashes in this area were Floyd V. Ekey, 36, killed near his home west of Ashland, Saturday night when the bicycle he was riding was struck by an automobile, and Mrs. Ruth Vogel, 28, Cleveland, who was fatally hurt when an automobile turned over near Mt. Vernon. She was riding in the rumble seat of the car.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Heyl funeral home, Ashland, with Rev. A. H. Smith officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

Ekey is survived by his father, William Ekey, Ashland; two sisters, Mrs. G. S. Swineford and Mrs. J. D. McKittick, both of Ashland, and two brothers, Curt and Phoebe also of Ashland.

Pinned under his car for several minutes after it crashed into a bridge near the Morrow county line in Crawford county, Arthur Shumaker, 24, of Galion, was recovering today from cuts on his head and arms. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Keeler, who were in a car near the scene of the accident, summoned help to lift the automobile off Shumaker. The bridge was damaged and Shumaker's car was virtually demolished.

Train Kills Three. Three Ohioans, all residents of West Unity, were killed when a passenger train struck their automobile at Adrian, Mich., 30 miles north of Toledo.

In another Michigan accident, Paul W. Hoak, 42, of Cleveland, was killed when his car struck a tree near Carroll.

Two brothers were killed and a third was seriously injured when an automobile hit a bridge abutment at Cambridge. The victims were Fred, Johns, 23, Fais Johns, 27, both killed, and Edward Johns, 25, seriously hurt.

5-FOOT PLANE STAYS ALOFT 20 MINUTES TO WIN MODEL CONTEST

Propelled by a tiny gasoline motor, a model airplane with a wing spread of about five feet, stayed aloft for nearly 20 minutes yesterday afternoon to set a new Mansfield record for a pilotless plane in the model class.

The ship, built by Edward Beilstein, 340 West Fifth street, competed in the fifth annual model plane show at Municipal airport. Reaching a height of about 2,000 feet, it soared four miles before it landed in the Voegel coal yard on North Main street.

Judges in the air show timed the plane at 19 minutes and 53 seconds while it was in sight. The plane's record flight won a $5 model kit for Beilstein.

Second place in the gas model classification was won by Dale Koozer, 121 Reba avenue, whose ship was in the air six minutes and 35 seconds. Koozer's entries won first prize as high point entry in the contest. He received a Frank Lahm Cadets club membership cup, 15 minutes free flying instructions at the airport and $1.75 in model plane supplies.

In the classification for model planes propelled by rubber bands Koozer's entry was in flight one minute and 21 seconds to win first place.

A glider entry owned by Roland Poth, 28 Columbia avenue, won first in its classification by staying aloft one minute and 41 seconds. Poth also won first with his detail scale entry, a reproduction of the Thompson trophy winner in the 1935 Cleveland air races.

The air show, sponsored by the Frank Lahm cadets, attracted about 25 contestants. More than 200 people saw the exhibition. Judges were James Zimmerman, Meritt Caton, Jr., Virgil Bowman, Arthur Schmidt and Dale Stewart.

Mr. Shevnav says: The Zoetie Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthen the weakened parts, thereby closing the opening in ten days on the average, ease regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume, no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnav will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

CHAPTER 28.

But even though Noel insisted she wasn't afraid of Nick Luigi, she dreaded very much having to tell him that she was leaving. She hadn't any idea how he would take it. Nick, with his pale eyes and grim lips with the endless cigar clamped in one corner of his mouth.

The more she thought of it, the more she dreaded telling him. Sometimes she almost decided not to tell him at all, but just simply fail to appear on Monday night. In that way she would avoid what she was sure would be a hateful scene. But Noel had never been a coward. And Nick had helped her out when she had needed help so very much.

However, Noel had to have another scene with Nick, no matter how much she had hoped to avoid it. For when she reached the Peacock that night, another evening frock had been substituted for the brocade one. This one was of flame-colored chiffon, with a low, softly-shaped bodice and a very full accordion-pleated skirt.

Right then and there the argument started. It was Nick in the end who won. Noel wore the new frock, telling herself happily that it wouldn't be for long. Only to-night—she would not come back!

The chiffon frock swirled gracefully and beautifully about her slender body when she began dancing. It seemed that everyone in the place had his eyes upon her, not excepting Nick, of course. And then to Noel's delight she saw Chris come up and tap her partner on the shoulder. He took her in his arms and smiled at her in his gay, boyish way. So she knew he was no longer angry.

It was lovely to be dancing with him again. "I'm so glad you came," she whispered. "This is my last night here."

"You bet your life it is, sweetheart," Chris said blithely. "I've got important news for you," he added.

Noel and Chris danced, Chris explained to Noel that he had been trying to find her, for he had not suspected that Nick had been lying when he had told him that Noel was no longer at the Peacock. And then accidentally he had met Maida who told him that she was still here.

The good news Chris had was this: He was looking for a dancing partner. He already had a girl in mind, but the more he danced with Noel, the more he believed she was the one he should have.

So, that very night, his manager would be there and see Noel dance. And if he felt confident that Noel could make the grade, then the arrangement was a definite one. It would mean a big job and a big salary.

Noel was thrilled. What girl wouldn't be by such an amazing turn of fortune's wheel? That is, if it really came to anything and Chris was confident it would. "Breton won't be able to resist you," he said. "I'm certain he won't."

It was impossible not to catch some of his enthusiasm. In her imagination Noel dipped into the future and saw a wonderful career for Chris and herself. It meant that success would be within her grasp. She would be able to make good her proud boast about being able to take care of herself and make her own living. She was grateful to Maida for telling Chris she was still there.

She almost forgot her fear of Luigi in her pleasure of Chris' news. But she was still careful not to dance with him too many times.

Promptly at 10, a tall, dignified man came in, who was recognizable at once as a being from another world.

The minute he appeared, Chris cut in again on Noel's partner. "He's here," he said excitedly. "Now don't make any effort. Just dance as you always have with me. He'll recognize you at once as a natural."

Noel forgot she was on trial. She had always loved dancing with Chris.

Just before they finished, Chris whispered. "He's impressed. He's never taken his eyes off of you for one single moment."

After their dance, Chris presented his manager to Noel, and she found her hand in his for a firm, friendly clasp. She was conscious as usual of Nick's watchful eyes, this time he even was showing signs of resentment instead of having an expressionless mask. But for once Noel was utterly indifferent to the way Nick looked. Nothing revolving around this hateful place could touch her much longer. Or so Noel confidently believed.

Carey Breton smiled at Noel with frank admiration. "Chris is right, Miss Doran. You're a find. I'm almost ready to say you'll do for the other half of this team, but not quite ready—yet. Ever do any exhibition dancing?"

Noel had not. She had done a few solo dances at parties, and at Junior league musicals. Once she had danced as Carmen in a Spanish dance, very fast and furious. And once a slow and very graceful dance in the costume of a Greek maiden. She had to admit that her experience was limited.

Chris and Carey Breton did not stay long. When they left, it was understood that Chris would bring Noel to Breton's uptown studio the next day at 11, at which time she would be given a real test, and all details would be talked over.

When they left, it was still two hours before closing time. Never had time seemed to pass so slowly. When she was ready to leave, would she tell Nick? She hadn't yet made up her mind. It seemed so very cowardly to just walk out, for Nick had been a friend—in a way.

It seemed strange. Noel thought that things should begin breaking for her all at once. She had two jobs now. At least two good prospects. The position at the Garwoods' didn't seem nearly so attractive now, since she had met Mr. Breton, and he had encouraged her so much about her dancing, although it wasn't money or fame she wanted. Simply the chance to make good her proud words to Julian.

At last it was time for the place to close. Noel had decided she

"It's just—more dignified. And I'm tired of dancing," she told him. She was wondering if he did have anything to tell her about Julian, or had that been merely a ruse to get her here? How did Nick know that the mention of Julian's name was the only thing that would have induced her to come? "What do you have to tell me about Julian Page?" she questioned again.

Nick ignored her words. "So you're looking for dignity, are you? I knew you were like that the first moment I saw you. A girl with class. That's why I'm so crazy about you."

Noel looked at him with a frown. "I'm going now. You only said what you did about Doctor Paige to induce me to come up here. You haven't anything to tell me really."

"Haven't I?" Nick lifted his dark brows. "Well, listen to this: I'm going to marry you." His voice sounded patronizing as if he expected Noel to be overwhelmed at such an honor.

It is only by contrast that the South is "underprivileged"—most foreign nations would consider it a paradise.

A magazine writer says fortune tellers find more easy marks in Washington, D. C., than in any other city—sort of an assembly of "the cream of the crop."

According to a news item: "A house committee witness ties Shirley Temple up with the Red scourge"—and Shirley is at an age when the idea might seem quite attractive.

Optimism In Automotive Field.

NEWS from Detroit continues optimistic in regard to the fall outlook for the automotive industry as it enters upon its 1939 production schedule.

With an estimate of $60,000,000 spent by manufacturers for re-tooling in preparation for 1939 models, it is also stated that plans have been completed to spend hundreds of millions of dollars for materials as the season progresses.

Production of 1938 models is rapidly being brought to a close, with such a clean-up in available cars that some automotive industries predict "an actual car shortage will exist in some markets" before the 1939 models are ready for delivery.

While secrecy shrouds the plans of various manufacturers for changes in appearance and mechanism of 1939 models, persistent rumors are to the effect that a number of surprises will be in store for prospective new car buyers in the various price ranges and that the first showing of 1939 models will be worth watching for.

Akron Joins One-Newspaper Ranks.

AKRON, with a population exceeding 250,000, follows closely after Toledo in a newspaper consolidation that places the Beacon Journal alone in its field.

Announcement made yesterday is to the effect that the Times-Press, a Scripps-Howard paper, has been sold to the Beacon Journal and that publication as one newspaper will start today.

The Beacon Journal came into being as a result of a merger effected 40 years ago and its publisher is John S. Knight, son of the late Charles L. Knight, long a prominent figure in Ohio's newspaper and political circles.

The Times-Press emerged as a consolidation, in 1925, of the Press and the Times, which dated back to 1867.

In announcing the consolidation, in its Sunday issue, the Times-Press expressed belief that "the best interests of the community would be served by one strong newspaper."

Trend of such large Ohio cities as Toledo, Youngstown, Akron and Canton toward one newspaper evidences the large increases that have come about in recent years in the costs involved in equipping and operating a modern newspaper plant.

Time was, in the earlier days, when small city newspaper equipment represented an investment of a few thousand dollars and each little city was assumed to be able to support two rabidly opposed political party organs.

Modern requirements of newspaper publication, with large investment in mechanical equipment, high operating costs, expense of wire services and a multitude of special features, together with advances in the cost of print paper—all of these things tend to make impossible the profitable operation of more than one newspaper except in the largest cities.

Also there has come about, within the past several decades, a tendency among newspapers to depart from the violently partisan policies of earlier publishers and to conform more nearly to the ideal of performing a necessary community service, without political bias or partiality to any special interests.

Publication of the only newspaper in its field places high responsibility on the publisher of that newspaper and upon all who are associated with its policies and operation, with special need for the utmost care that fairness and impartiality mark its course at all times and that it perform to the utmost of its ability in serving not only its readers and advertisers but that its service extend to full co-operation in all projects intended for community advancement and improvement of the public welfare.

Careless Habit Brings Death.

BY A STRANGE quirk of fate, a Canton man who had devoted years to the cause of traffic safety, was killed last week as a result of an act of carelessness on his own part.

According to news reports, he was killed when he was struck by an automobile while alighting from his parked car.

This can only be taken to mean that, as he was ready to leave his car he opened the door on the street side and was struck by an unnoticed car that approached from the rear.

This is such a common practice of many drivers that any motorist can visualize the incident.

You have all experienced it—driving along a street when the door of a parked car is suddenly popped open and the driver steps out into the street without giving a thought to danger from a car that is almost alongside.

Sometimes this occurs on a narrow street, with a car parked on the opposite side, which gives small clearance space for the moving car and occasionally results in a smashed door, if not in injury or death for the careless driver who stepped into the path of danger.

Habit of alighting from an automobile on the curb side is well worth cultivating—and one that should be taught to all children.

Exercise for Tantrums.

CORA McCASKILL, instructor in the Vanderbilt University School of Nursing, gives a practical suggestion about temperamental children. If they are given to tantrums, she says, don't lecture them or punish them. Just give them more to do. They need to work off their energy.

This doesn't mean to give an immediate job to a child in a rage. Ignore him or put him in a quiet room till he gets over it. Then give him interesting work for his mind and muscles.

"There is no short cut to Utopia," says 'he President—and there is also Douglas Corrigan, who aimed for California and reached Ireland.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written by LOUIS JOHNSON, Assistant Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON—In the last 14 months my duties in the War department have carried me across every state in the Union and the territory of Alaska. I have addressed many audiences and discussed many matters pertaining to the welfare of our people with citizens in all walks of life.

I found differences of opinion on practically every subject and unanimity only on one. The American people appear unanimous in a desire for peace.

A responsible government, responsive to the will of the American people, is striving in every way to realize this universal desire of its citizens. In dealing with neighbors in America and with nations across the seas, it practices patience and self-restraint. In the pursuit of governmental policies it avoids force or the threat of force. It observes international agreements. It encourages trade treaties among all nations. An open hand in friendship, it extends to all people.

There is not an inch of territory in any foreign country that we covet. There is not a dollar of foreign riches anywhere in the world that we would take without due process of law. In a badly frightened and greatly harassed world, we stand out as a symbol of world peace and as an apostle of good will.

Respect for Man.

DESPITE our example and our determination to enjoy the blessings of peace, there can be no guarantee that we will never have to take up arms in the defense of our country. History is replete with examples of aggressive nations short on good judgment and long on mad dreams whose avaricious machinations have drawn peace-loving peoples into the martial field; and history may repeat itself.

If a holocaust again should sweep our country, we are determined to hold our human losses to a minimum. We shall stint neither on treasure nor on resources but we shall make every effort to conserve life and reduce the suffering of our men in battle.

In some countries of the world, man is held cheap. Among some peoples human beings are counted in terms of cannon fodder. In the United States, on the other hand, we have the utmost respect for human life. We in the army feel a responsibility for every soldier in our ranks. To save manpower and to minimize losses are the duties of every officer in the American army from general to second lieutenant.

Mechanized Units.

WE HAVE worked out an industrial mobilization program which we are confident will meet his needs, reduce his difficulties, save days upon days of preparation and consequently thousands upon thousands of lives in battle. In keeping with a program of "less war and fewer casualties," the War department is substituting machines for men whenever possible.

Let us take a few concrete examples. For the World War infantry division of 22,000 men, we are substituting a force of approximately 13,000. The decrease in men is taken up by more guns, more trucks, more tanks, more armored cars and more mechanical robots.

The infantry regiment of 1917-18 had 3,664 men. The proposed new organization calls for less than 2,300. The doughboy of yesterday had 12 machine guns to bolster the human efforts of his regiment. Today it is proposed to give him 48. We have developed an automatic rifle which in the hands of one doughboy can deliver as much firepower as five of the old Springfield in the hands of five fighting men.

In the cavalry we note similar tendencies. The old horse regiment included 1,764 men and eight machine guns. The new mechanized outfit has 749 men and 522 machine guns.

Finally, let me say, it is the sincere hope and prayer of every responsible person in the War department that we will never have to call on a single truck, a single tank, a single machine gun or even a single rifle in defense of our country.

Timely Editorial

To Dodge Lightning.

No people on earth are more concerned about the public health than insurance men because death to an insured is money out of their pockets. They are especially concerned about the large number of deaths from lightning since many policies carry double liability for fatalities resulting from this cause.

As a result of a recent study, they urge people not to go bathing or play golf during electrical storms. Golf clubs are perfect lightning conductors and groups on bathing beaches seem to attract lightning bolts. Safest place during a thunderstorm, they report, is inside a building and contrary to popular belief, a steel building is safest of all.

The insurers pass along the suggestions because compliance saves them money. The insured should cooperate because caution saves their lives.—Canton Repository.

What of Anti-New Deal Democrats?

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—It is fascinating to wonder what will become of the anti-New Deal Democrats if it becomes finally apparent that the New Dealers are irrevocably in control of the Democratic party.

This year is not likely to settle the question; "pro" and "anti" congressional victories probably will more or less balance one another.

But 1940 should be pretty decisive. Should the anti-New Deal Democrats, as John N. Garner, succeed in dictating the next Democratic presidential nomination, their problem will be solved for them. Even if their candidate were to lose at the polls, the party still would be their party. However, if Roosevelt is renominated or if he picks the nominee, the anti-New Deal Democrats will find themselves in a predicament.

Today the pro and anti-New Deal Democrats disagree upon nearly every subject under heaven. There is no hint that any of their divergences will peter out, either.

NOT SO SIMPLE

The logical thing would be for this country to split into two new parties—a liberal and a conservative.

But it doesn't seem to be disposed to do that.

The Republicans are one bunch, at odds with the New Deal Democrats. The New Deal Democrats are a second bunch, at odds with the Republicans and the anti-New Deal Democrats but unable to merge with the Republicans. The La Follette Progressives and the Farmer-Laborites are a couple of other bunches. Maybe the American Labor party is yet to be recognized.

I don't speak of Communists, Bunds and Fascists; they're too silly to be mentioned.

OUT ON A LIMB?

But I do allege that the anti-New Deal Democrats look to me like being out on a limb, if the New Dealers lick them in 1940.

I don't see where they can go—if the New Dealers swing that year's Democratic presidential convention.

So Live Each Day

—By MARY J. SENEFF

So live each day when evening shadows fall
And all the things of nature seek to rest.

With radiant face turned Heavenward you can say
To Him, who understands, "I've done my best."

That best might be but simple, humbly deeds,
Or humble tasks that seem each day your part.

But, Oh, the joy that comes to him who tries,
And ever keeps a song within his heart!

A Farmer's Diary

The Homecoming.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR family attended the annual homecoming, at the little red schoolhouse in the woods, on the corner of our farm. The school bell that eight years ago rang out its mellow tones, is silent now. The brilliant orange school bus has come, instead. But every year the old brick schoolhouse is the scene of such a community reunion as brings memories, and reunites old friends.

The building looks old. Its huge chimney is rough, with many loosened bricks on the western side. The tiers below the eaves stand out in deep, separate lines, where frost and wind and rain of many years have worn away the mortar. The old coal shed is sagging, bereft of floor and windows.

Today the schoolhouse door was open. Inside, on long tables were heavy lunch baskets, with country women unpacking them. Soon the white-covered table was spread with delectable country food. After the feast, the frolic. I pitched horseshoes with three other men, and lost. Was glad when the program started. An orchestra composed of members of a single family was one enjoyable feature. Several former teachers of the school were there, bent now with years, but proud to have had a part in making the citizenship of today.

I saw a capable mother leave her place, and go with hands outstretched, to meet a man who hesitantly approached. "Do you know me?" He looked at her a moment. "Yes, I do. You're Nancy H.... It's been a long time since we went to school together here."

"Indeed it was, but I'd have felt real bad if you hadn't known me. These are my girls... no, not twins... nineteen and seventeen... it doesn't seem possible. I know. I'm getting old."

"Well, I hate to tell you, but I was sixty, myself, last birthday... the years have been good to both of us."

"Too bad some of the neighbors had to thresh," I heard one farmer say. "I'm sorry for them as has to miss a time like this. They'll be here tonight, though, I'll warrant."

Too bad, indeed, for those who have to miss this memories of days in country school. Here was born the true spirit of America—democracy that stands the test of time.

Young America Says—

Peace Calls for Courage.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT IS REAL COURAGE?

Does it mean going around with a chip on your shoulder, spreading threats, sneers, direful warnings?

It certainly does NOT, writes Robert L. Sappenfield of Yakima, Wash., in a letter which should be compulsory reading for every patriotic American.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"In the face of all these war rumors I think we Young Americans should do a little thinking about what constitutes COURAGE and COWARDICE. Obviously we should maintain an adequate military force to defend us when attacked, and take every other intelligent protective measure."

"But GOING AROUND WITH A CHIP ON YOUR SHOULDER, BOASTING AND BULLYING ANYONE OF FOREIGN BIRTH IS CERTAINLY NOT COURAGE. NOR DOES THE FACT THAT MANY OF US DEMAND PEACE PROVE THAT WE ARE COWARDS."

"I'm willing to wager that there isn't one out of a million Young Americans who wouldn't voluntarily go to the defense of his country if the need arose... yet these same young men are advocates for peace. Why? Because they have been educated to recognize the futility of the wholesale butchery we call War."

"As for Peace Propaganda instilling fear into us—that's absurd! In the first place, Peace itself calls for the highest form of bravery and self-control. Second, the courage of our forefathers is too deeply rooted in us to be ousted by a few words. THEY WERE BRAVE ENOUGH TO MAKE WAR. WE, THEIR SONS, ARE BRAVE ENOUGH TO WAR AGAINST WAR!"

Robert L. Sappenfield—age 21, Yakima, Wash. ($10 prize winner.)

There speaks the real American spirit... that shrewd, proud spirit which has always rebelled against being "sold down the river" by any form of crooked concealing or sentimental hokum.

America started with a hymn on its lips... a prayer in its heart... and the fire of faith in its dauntless eyes. Religion colored every act of our new-born nation. Then slowly we drifted away... yet beneath the seeming changes, that first spirit still stood firm. Proof? Ask Texas, where a simple, singing salesman has just been nominated for the Governor's chair, with the Ten Commandments as a platform!

AND now a 19-year-old Young American—William Young of Detroit, Mich.—sends out the call for a "BACK-TO-CHRISTIANITY" MOVEMENT.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"America is facing big-time trouble, and we should do something about it."

"Read back in our history, and you'll see that our forefathers had a strong religious sense. Abraham Lincoln, in his most trying moments, always turned to the Bible for comfort and courage. The Christian men who formed our Constitution made it as fair as possible to all people—but now look what has happened to us."

"LET US TURN ABOUT AND TRY TO LIVE CHRISTIAN LIVES, using the Golden Rule as our measure of conduct. Let us share our joys and sorrows alike, and stop being greedy, material, selfish in our outlook. Everyone would be richer and happier, in spirit and material, because everyone would have a chance."

"The fact that we have poverty, jails, crime and are living in constant fear of war shows how we miss Religion. SO HOW ABOUT A BACK-TO-CHRISTIANITY MOVEMENT?"

William Young—age 19, Detroit, Mich. ($7.50 prize winner.)

A great letter! Pass Bill's idea along—and "sign up" yourself for the campaign.

Man About Manhattan Looks Over New Orleans

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW ORLEANS—This is ghost night in New Orleans. All the old shades are here. If you listen carefully you can hear their footsteps echo in the piers. They rub elbows with you on the crowded sidewalk. Exiles, refugees, poets, adventurers, all are here, some with bright paste buckles on their pumps, others less dandified but no whit less intriguing. They know who you are. Their eyes follow you as you drift through the narrow streets.

Who are they? That half-starved scarecrow over there is Lafcadio Hearn. What a strange capacity for ecstasy his imagination has! He wept the first time he saw sunrise over New Orleans. "It was like young death," he wrote, "a dead bride crowned with orange flowers—a dead face that asked for a kiss." That was a long time ago. He lived in that tire shop there—but it was not a tire shop then. It was a drab rooming house.

AND yonder is Pepe Llulla, with his sword and his thin, sensitive face. He is a grand, and a duelist. He has been in more than 30 affairs of honor, and it is said he started a cemetery in order to have a convenient place to bury his victims. This is the cemetery of St. Vincent de Paul. You may see it if you go out to 1322 Louisiana street.

You know who that fellow is, the one with the white hair and the laugh-wrinkles growing out of his eyes? He is juggling down innumerable notes and impressions. He loves this place. Presently, those notes will be put into a book, and it will last for all time and be known as "Life on the Mississippi." His pen name is Mark Twain.

Ney and Hood are next. They have much in common, these two old warriors walking the streets of old New Orleans. I think from time to time they steal glances at one another, of admiration and wonder. That they belonged to different generations make no difference. On the field of battle, both were past masters at leading forlorn hopes.

Now comes Oscar Wilde, with his flowing hair and trailing sunflower, talking confidently, though just a shade too wittily. He, too, came to New Orleans for awhile. It puzzled him that so colorful and fascinating a subject as the Negro had not been more firmly identified in literature.

BREAK BETWEEN LEWIS, MARTIN DRAWS NEARER

Auto Union Leaders Propose to Cease Paying Monthly Assessment to CIO.

(By United Press)
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Leaders of 46,000 members of the United Automobile Workers of America urged their international executive board today to discontinue paying a monthly per capita assessment of five cents to John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization because, they charged, he had attempted to destroy the autonomy of their organization.

The resolution was adopted at a closed meeting by 345 delegates of 51 U. A. W. locals in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois. The delegates met at an advisory council and had no legislative or administrative powers.

The resolution protested "unwarranted and unprecedented interference by Lewis," and was interpreted as a blanket endorsement of Homer Martin, U. A. W. international president, who has been involved for several months in a dispute with four international officers for control of the union.

Communism Charged.
The executive board ousted the officers Aug. 6 on charges that they had attempted to gain control of the U. A. W. so they could turn it over to "communists."

Lewis had proposed that all controversial questions in the U. A. W. be submitted to the CIO for final decision. He also had suggested that the ousted officials—Vice Presidents Ed Hall, Richard Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer and Secretary-Treasurer George Addes—be reinstated and that the questions of their discharge be submitted to the next international convention.

The resolution was adopted last night after Martin had spent more than an hour defending expulsion of the officers.

If the executive board approves the recommendation to stop paying the assessment, the CIO will lose an estimated $20,000 a month providing that all U. A. W. members were working. The union claims a membership of nearly 40,000.

Honeymoon At End, Young Roosevelt Starts Store Job

BOSTON—(AP)—His two months honeymoon at an end, John A. Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, settled down today to a business career with a job as a stock clerk—at $18 a week in a Boston department store.

A tall young man with a familiar smile, John had orders to report for work—through the employees' entrance—not later than 9:20 a. m.

However, John reported about an hour earlier. He paused briefly at the door as news cameras snapped, but good naturedly declined to pose.

"No foolishness this time," he said, "this is serious business."

NEW PRESSURE PUT ON NAZIS

Britain Prepares to Insist on Recognition of Her War Stand by Germany.

cabinet officers are summoned back to Downing street from their holidays, and the events of the past few days have convinced the man in the street that sinister and shocking developments, instead of mere jitters or alarmist rumors, are possible.

The public gave evidence of its own concern by gathering in droves in the narrow confines of Downing street today as diplomats and statesmen passed in and out of that famous door. Chamberlain was accorded a lusty cheer when he entered, accompanied by his wife, credited herself with being one of the suaveest diplomats operating unofficially for Britain today.

In view of recent press criticism "tricking to dictators," it was significant that the crowd gave him a rousing ovation. Men waved their hats and women their handkerchiefs.

Fear Move by Hitler.
Events of the past few days and private diplomatic advice received by 10 Downing street have led British officials to the reluctant conclusion that Hitler is making definite preparations for a quick blow in Czechoslovakia if the opportunity offers itself and if he thinks he can "get away with it."

Chamberlain has decided that Britain must do everything short of outright commitments to Prague to convince the Fuehrer he cannot "get away with it." Toward this end, the cabinet tomorrow will discuss a new and stronger warning to Hitler as well as the steps the government will be compelled to take in the event the warnings are defied.

Grave fear prevails that if Hitler decides to risk a conflict at the present, some Nazi move will be made to precipitate an incident in the Sudeten area which will place the Czechs themselves in the role of aggressors.

Diplomatic reports here even go so far as to say that the German minister to Bucharest warned Rumania that if France intervened on behalf of Czechoslovakia, Germany would consider her an aggressor.

The so far uncompromising attitude of Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein and his followers is causing gravest apprehension here. It was learned that both Lord Runciman, British mediator, and his chief of staff, Francis G. Ashton, Gwatkin, strongly urged Henlein to accept the new Czech proposals as a basis for discussion.

They pointed out that to date the Sudeten themselves have made few constructive proposals while the Czechs offer places a strong obligation upon the Sudeten to show a similar conciliatory attitude.

The British government also diplomatically expressed concern and disappointment to Berlin over the Henlein order to the Sudeten to prepare to defend themselves, emphasizing that such action serves only to increase Runciman's difficulties.

Sudeten Leader Insulted, Claim.

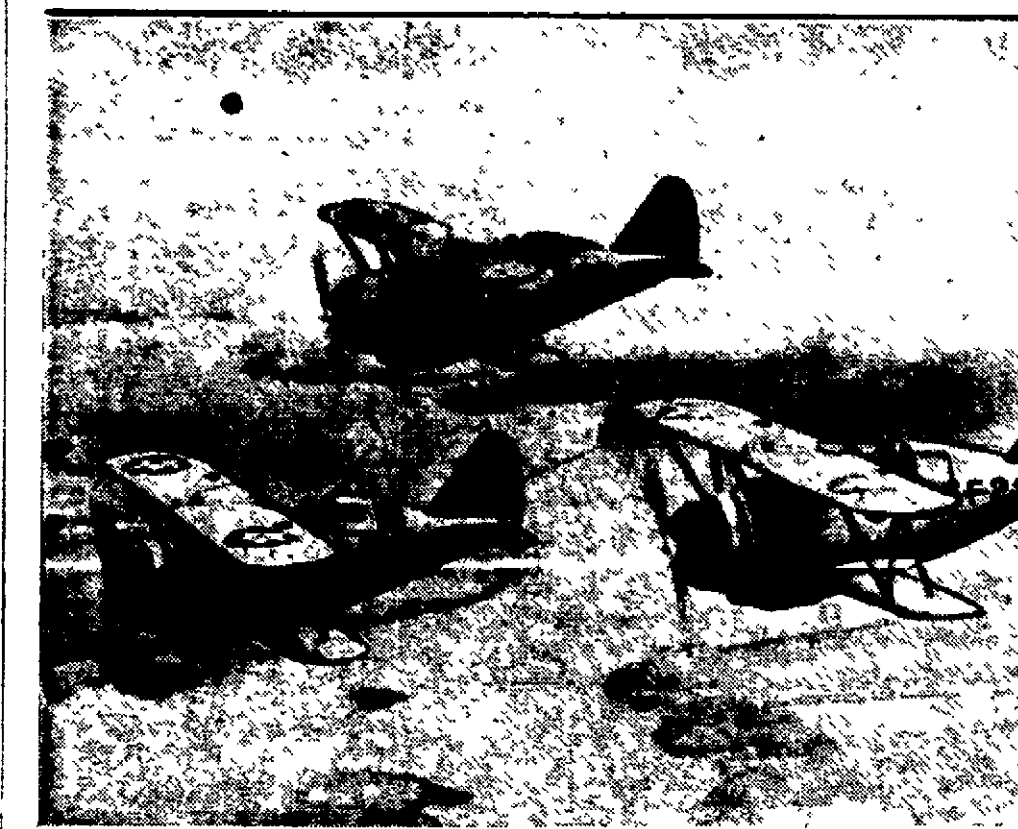

(By International News Service)
BERLIN — The breast-beating dispute between Berlin and Prague over the autonomy demands of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans reached a new shrill crescendo today amid charges that Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein had been affronted.

A German press report stated that Henlein, chief spokesman of Chancellor Hitler in Czechoslovakia, was "insulted" by Czech soldiers.

The officially inspired report added that a sharp German protest over this incident was expected to be lodged with the Prague government.

Official details of the "insult" were not available. Press reports, however, said Czech soldiers had jeered Henlein when he passed through Fohlen.

JAPANESE FAIL MAY YOHE, MADCAP OF OTHER YEARS, DIES IN HUMBLE HOME

(By United Press)
BOSTON—To the humble Back Bay apartment of a $16.50 a week WPA clerk today came cablegrams of condolence from persons all over the world who remembered her as May Yohe, madcap of the gay nineties and once owner of the ill-omened but coveted Hope diamond.

Funeral services for Miss Yohe, who died of a heart attack yesterday, will be held Wednesday at a Roxbury funeral parlor, followed by cremation.

"I don't know what I'll do with the ashes," said her third and last husband, Captain John A. Smuts, British veteran of the Boer war and nephew of the famed General Jan Christiaan Smuts of the Boer army.

Near the deathbed of the 72-year old woman who once likened her life to a roller-coaster, rested the choice possession of her late years of obscurity. It was a photograph of a bearded man who had inscribed it "To May, 1898," and signed it "Edward" King Edward VII who entertained May at dinner when he was Prince of Wales and she was the musical comedy favorite of London, Paris and New York, had given it to her.

Then May was Lady Hope, bride of Lord Francis Hope weaver of the 44-karat Hope diamond vivaciously beautiful and unconventional, toasted in all the pleasure spots of two continents for her wit, charm and daring.

She married Capt. Strong in 1902, divorced him in 1910, and in 1914 married Capt. John A. Smuts.

Asks Court to Put Limit on Buildings In Flood District
Seeking to limit the types of buildings which shall be permitted in parts of the Charles Mill dam area in eastern Richland county, the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district today had filed amended petitions in four cases against property owners in the flood control area.

Defendants named in the suits, which also seek to have a jury determine the amount of flood easement fees due the owners, are Viola Boals, Willard Hale, John P. Showalter and Fred L. Houston.

The amended actions ask permission to remove buildings in the area which have first floor elevations 10 feet or more below the dam spillway elevation, and to prohibit the construction of new buildings without the consent of the conservancy district.

The district also seeks authority to enter properties below the spillway to remove driftwood after times of high water.

WINE SAMPLER GIVES UP JOB

Trucker Finds Temptation Too Great When Bungs Open.
CLEVELAND—(AP)—Edward Hickey, 45, told Police Judge Joseph N. Ackerman he doesn't want any more jobs unloading wine.

A bung was loose in one of the barrels Hickey and four companions were hired to unload from a freight car. Each time they unloaded a barrel they memorized the fact by tipping the injured barrel.

"I tried to get home but I guess my feet just weren't operating in the right direction, judge. I'm going to get a WPA job and I don't want to unload any more wine." He drew a suspended sentence.

Richland County Young Democratic club. George Koch of Shelby was elected vice president.

The organization meeting, held at the courthouse, was marked by the same harmony with which the party's central committee organized a week ago. A number of the party leaders, including M. W. Conley, central committee chairman for the past two years, and Mrs. Emma Young, president of the Dolly Madison club, called on committee members to forget primary differences and work for the entire Democratic ticket this fall.

Urging county Democrats to cooperate with O'Donnell in the fall campaign, Kallmerten, who supported Gov. Martin L. Davey for re-election, said "We can't destroy an organization and get anywhere. We must be constructive builders and not wreckers. We have only one thing in mind this fall, and that is to win for Sawyer and the entire ticket."

"Don't hand your new chairman an empty shell," he added. "Give him your loyal support, and I know he will be tolerant and undiscouraged in helping you."

O'Donnell who has been active in politics during the 10 years he has been in Mansfield, pledged his time and efforts to the election of a Democratic state and county slate in November.

He appealed to precinct workers throughout the county to build a strong organization, free from factional battles.

"I'll do my best and with your support we can build a winning organization in November," he said.

A resolution drawn up by George Hoffman, Shelby committeeman, endorsing Sawyer and the entire state, district and county ticket, was adopted by the committee.

CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS.

At a recent meeting of the Young People's class of the Lincoln Heights Church of the Brethren, officers for the coming year were elected. They are: Mary Rowan, president, Margaret Jacoby, vice president, Pauline Miller, secretary-treasurer; Bert Young and Helen Tucker, recreation leaders.

An alcove of the living room was banked with greens and garden flowers and lighted with bride's candles in candelabra, provided an attractive setting for the ceremony. The Rev. H. E. Heines, pastor of Newkirk's Methodist church, officiated at the double-ring exchange of vows.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white Alencon lace and rayon net. The blouse was of the lace and the double-net skirt fell into a full train. In her hair was a bridal curllet of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses, lilies-of-the-valley and gypsophila. She entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her only jewelry was a string of matched pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and an old gold bracelet, which was worn by his great-grandmother on her wedding day 100 years ago.

Her attendant was her sister Miss Mary Alleman. Her gown was azalea pink marquisette, with dusty rose accessories and around her head was a small halo matching the colors in her bouquet of Briarcliff roses and gypsophila. Wade Alleman, a brother of the bride, served as best man.

Miss Betsy Ann Basquin, a friend of the bride, presided at the piano. Just before the bridal party entered she played "In a Monastery Garden" and "Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus." While the vows were being exchanged she played "Indian Love Call" and concluded with Mendelssohn's wedding recessional.

Mrs. Alleman, mother of the bride, wore a gown of Boy Blue lace with ash rose accessories and a shoulder corsage of Briarcliff roses, while Mrs. Gyber's dress was of navy blue net over taffeta. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

After the wedding ceremony there was an informal reception and a buffet luncheon at the Alleman home. The couple left on a two weeks trip through the southern states.

For her traveling costume the bride wore a black pin stripe tailored suit with autumn green accessories, and a shoulder-ette of gardenias.

Mrs. Gyber has been employed at the National Re-employment Service in Mansfield, and Mr. Gyber is assistant manager of the May Jewelry company.

They will reside in Mansfield.

Question of Alimony

Divorce Major Operation

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Memory slid back several decades, a few days ago, when, at a woman's luncheon at a New York hotel, I heard Carrie Chapman Catt suggest alimony for men.

The luncheon was in honor of Miss Kirsten Hesselgren, of Sweden, who is a member of the Swedish parliament and who for a score of years has worked for better laws for women. But Mrs. Catt came perilously near to stealing the show when she made her plea for Equal Rights for men.

When Votes for Women seemed almost as remote as Mars, I used to go to Mrs. Catt for news concerning woman suffrage. At that time, the movement seemed to be progressing at a snail's gallop. And young feminists, though they married greater numbers, proportionately, than they do today, seemed to regard men as the great stumbling block in the path of feminine progress.

And here was Carrie Chapman Catt, who, in and out of season, for fifty years, had worked for women, asking that men's rights should not be overlooked in the progress women have made.

That was a bit of downright wisdom served to the ladies with their chicken patties, peas and ice-cream (how long, how long have we got to stand that monotonous menu served at women's lunches?).

But there was no questioning the "feast of reason," which came across with the chicken patties, etc. Some of the laws concerning alimony, by which men are victimized, seemed to cry aloud to high heaven. Alimony should be granted when there is a question of child welfare, and it should be granted to invalid wives, incapable of self-support.

But why any able-bodied woman, young and strong, and who probably was the wife of the alimony victim not more than a few months or a year at most, should receive alimony is just another of those legal mysteries.

But to return to that magnificent feminist, Carrie Chapman Catt. She admonished the women that it's high time they had a new program. There was no inti-

Laughter Oils Wheels Of Life

By MME. QUI VIVE

Here we are dragging out the old inferiority complex for a brief look-see into the way it works. That it is a dreadful social and business liability we all know. The self-conscious girl feels that it is a plague upon her. She doesn't know what to do with her hands, or her feet, she giggles when she shouldn't, blushes for no reason at all. When she meets a person she believes to be above her own social level she is at a loss for words. Life is bitter.

What is the cure? Self-esteem. How does she get it? By handing herself a little apple sauce and believing it. By developing a healthy conceit. Self-confidence is a power. It propels one toward success and makes for happiness. It can be cultivated.

The less self-consciousness is thought about, talked about, the better. The greatest geniuses who ever lived suffered from it. The most celebrated actresses have trembled before the footlights, had to force themselves to face an audience. Shy Nancy is not the only one whose heart jumps into her throat. Let that be a consolation to her. Many of us are subject to fear of one kind or another.

There's no such creature as a perfect individual; if there were, he or she wouldn't be normal. In other words, it isn't normal to be normal. Everyone has little quirks, failings, stubborn notions. Nobody's behavior is precisely as it should be. Even the cleverest has stupid moments. But wise individuals don't brood about their blunders. They laugh at them. Learn to laugh at yourself and you will oil the wheels of life.

Behavior is the result of early training and what goes on inside our minds. The sheltered child is likely to develop into a shy self-conscious adult. It's a good thing for little girls and boys to have many friends, fight their own fights, wrestle with and think out their own problems. That makes them strong.

There may be many causes for a feeling of inferiority—criticism in the family circle, failure in projects, defects in appearance, feeling different from other people. Causes must be found, brought to the light, dealt with. Face them bravely and they are no longer ogres. Self-consciousness is often the result of imagination. It is believed that others aren't sympathetic, that every hand is raised against one. That's productive of self-pity which is weakening to the character.

The human family is cut pretty much off the same piece of cloth. In every individual there is good and bad, some wisdom, some stupidity. All she has to convince herself to do is to be as good as the next one. And if she isn't what of it?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON
Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Though Lillian's voice was kind, there was in it a subtle note which flecked me as the touch of a whip might have done, and as swiftly and lucidly as possible I went on with the tale of the bizarre happenings that had followed the call of the drunken woman to Dicky at the Lansfield.

Knowing that less than the whole story would be of no use to Lillian, I omitted no detail. I told her of the dinner Mary and I had eaten at the French restaurant when we had heard Dicky's voice in cryptic conversation with the woman whose voice I recognized as that of his telephone interlocutor, of Dicky's departure from the scene with his dinner uneaten, and of the gangster-like individual who had eaten the meal and given us a terrifying hint of what lay beneath Dicky's promise to see the woman again when she should have come to her senses.

Tells of Ruse.

Then, after telling her of the ruse by means of which Mary and I had come face to face with the couple without their suspecting our identity, I told her of hearing the couple plan to be at the restaurant again for another—and more sinister—meeting with Dicky, of my determination to go to Dicky's office despite Mary's odd attempt to keep me away, of the change of mind I experienced after seeing the gangster of the restaurant pass the place, of telephoning Dicky and hearing the voice of the drunken woman—no longer drunk, but crisp, efficient in the role of Dicky's secretary—and finally, of Dicky's chasing me on my journey home, and interview in which he besought me to trust him, but in which I gave him no hint of what I had overheard.

"That was a master move," Lillian commented when I finished my story abruptly upon that incident. "No use letting him in on the lowdown when the chance to help him out of this mess—whatever it is—might be endangered by your doing so."

Madge Is Scolded.

"That's what I thought," I said a bit dolorously, for the recital of the sordid story had made me live over again the fright and humiliation of those hours.

"Look here!" Lillian said abruptly, "there isn't the slightest use of your brooding over this. You can't help your husband that way. We must plan something constructive. When did you say that next meeting of those two worthies with the Dicky-bird was scheduled?"

I told her, and she drew her eyebrows together, considering.

"Yes, I can make it," she said.

"You may not know it, or want me, little one, but that's one party where I'm going to tag along."

"Want you?" I exclaimed fervently. "If you could imagine what heaven it is for me to have you at hand, I was getting terribly discouraged and bewildered trying to manage this affair by myself."

"Well! I'm on the job now," she said in the matter-of-fact manner in which she discourages any expression of gratitude to herself for any favor done. "Will you turn it over to me?"

She's Willing.

"Oh! so willingly!" I repeated, feeling indeed as if a heavy, almost intolerable burden had just been lifted from my shoulders.

"Then don't think anything more about it," she said, "except to keep your eyes wide open. I want you to note down every slightest thing that develops and mail it to me special delivery as soon as you have it. If you think it necessary, wire or phone me to come to the city pronto. I'll do a little undercover work myself where I think it will do the most good before that rendezvous, getting ready for it. I have a plan for that party jelling around in my so-called brain right now, but I won't spill it yet."

I had a shrewd suspicion of what her plan was and that it was identical with one Mary was consider-

THEATER

Tragic Episode.

HISTORY can produce no more romantic nor more grimly tragic episode than that of the 15-year-old archduchess who married the ugly, stupid dauphine and became the queen of France, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer takes up the episode and makes a picture that for romance and tragedy is second to none. "Marie Antoinette," current at the Ohio, is an extravagantly filmed drama revolving around the archduchess who became queen. If it pictures her in a more sympathetic character than that with which history has endowed her, it makes up for it in entertainment value. The characteristics of thoughtlessness and indifference to human misery have been left out of Norma Shearer's interpretation of Marie, and she is shown as a lovely woman surrounded by enemies who made the most of her weaknesses. Against a background of unbelievably beautiful sets and costumes, 153 players and hundreds of extras enact the tragedy of France. Tyrone Power, John Barrymore, Robert Morley, Gladys George, Anita Louise, and Joseph Schildkraut head the cast.

Making A Criminal.

A realistic and human drama of the modern boy who has no home background and a bad environment is told in "Little Tough Guy," which the Madison is showing. The young players who have ing without telling me its nature. But I only nodded, well content to let Lillian do the planning for the failing of the mysterious plot against my husband.

"And so that's that," she said briskly, in characteristic dismissal of a subject once she can extract no more "juice" from it. "And now tell me how old Phil has been acting toward Mary. I haven't heard a word, you know, since Mary and Noel left for the farm."

come to be identified as the Dead End Kids, because of their work in that play and picture, have the major roles in this drama of New York's tenements. The action revolves around one boy of the gang, his progress as a criminal and his retribution. Billy Halop, as Johnnie, has the major role and the action shows his progress from a street hoodlum to petty thieving and then on to robberies and hold-ups. His career interrupts the romance of his pretty sister, played by Helen Parrish and her fiance, played by Robert Wilcox. Jackie Seale is more "bratish" than usual and gets his deserts in the end.

Rowdy Comedy.

An apical battle between male and female is one of the high spots in "Nothing Sacred," the Frederic March-Carole Lombard comedy, which returns to Mansfield this week when the Majestic presents it for three days, starting tomorrow. It is of the extremely "nutty" variety which has been popular for the past two seasons. A New York reporter gets a Big Idea when he reads of a young woman in the New England states who is doomed to die in three months. He brings her to New York and after a promotional campaign introduces her as the spirit of American Womanhood. There is a lot of rowdy comedy before he discovers that he has the wrong girl. "Mr. Moto Takes A Chance" with Peter Lorre, Rochelle Hudson and Robert Kent is the second feature.

Jungle Romance.

It happens only in the movies, but when it does, it has definite sex office appeal. Two trans-Pacific flyers are forced down on a South Sea island, and find a "white goddess," who is none other than Charlie McCarthy's girl friend, Dorothy I. Amour, all decked out in a most becoming sarong. This is the second time that Dorothy and Ray Milland have been lost and found each other in a jungle. The first time was "Jungle Princess" and now it has developed to the point of "Jungle Love." The latter is one of the attractions at the Ritz. Lynne Overman is the other grounded flyer. The program also offers "Mannaquin," the love story of two people who rose from little beginnings. Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy starred.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

A RULE TO BE BROKEN

"DON'T lead away from a king" is a pretty good rule for openings against suit contracts, so long as the word "never" is not incorporated in it. At the proper time that rule is more honored in the breach than in the observance. "Know the rules and when to break them" is good advice for anyone.

away from three to the K of clubs. This play prevented declarer from making his contract, as he played for a trump break and was set one. Any other lead would have enabled South to make the contract easily, as spades or hearts could have been set up to prevent a club loser.

Tomorrow's Problem.

North and South reached a contract of 6-Diamonds on this deal after an opening bid of 1-Spades by South, 2-Hearts by North, 3-Diamonds by South, 4-Diamonds by North, 5-Diamonds by South and six by North.

West was "on the spot" for a lead. With hearts bid in the North and spades and diamonds in the South, a lead of any of those suits would apparently make an extra trick for declarer. He therefore decided to try the unorthodox lead (Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

What is South's safest play to make his 5-Club contract, the heart Q being the opening lead?

I take THIS MUCH of Your DOLLAR

2 CENTS

ALL THE REST ... 98 CENTS GOES FOR FOOD ... CLOTHING AND SHELTER ... AND ALL THE REST OF YOUR EXPENSES

The way some people talk, you'd think that your electric service bill was about the largest of your annual living expenses, and that if it could be reduced it would solve the problem of the high cost of living. But actually, the cost of my services for the average family, according to United States government figures, is less than two per cent of the total budget—in other words, less than two cents out of each dollar that you take in. But don't think that just because my bill for electric service is the smallest part of your annual budget, I'm not trying constantly to make it even lower. As a matter of fact, although living costs in general have gone up 40 per cent since 1913, the cost for my services has been REDUCED 40 per cent in the same length of time. And I'm doing everything I can to make it even lower. So use it freely . . . because ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP.

Variations Of Dressings For Salads

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
(Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company)

Although with the passing of summer the demand for salad meals will wane, modern dietetics now makes the salad an essential part of every meal. The dressings for salads are the most important thing to the flavor and appetite appeal, so today we offer a series of 10 variations of common and rare dressings for the crisp addition to your meals.

To bring out new and delightful taste thrills in your favorite salad dressings, do not overlook the flavor giving qualities of honey, chili sauce, and horseradish used in these ten variations.

1. French Dressing: Add 1/4 cup French dressing to 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

2. Honey: Add 2 tablespoons honey to 1 cup mayonnaise. For fruits.

3. Russian Dressing: Fold 1/4 cup chili sauce and 2 tablespoons pickle relish into 1 cup mayonnaise.

4. Tomato: Cut peeled, firm, but ripe tomatoes into cubes and drain thoroughly. Just before serving the salad add 1 cup of the tomato cubes, salted lightly, to 1 cup of mayonnaise. One teaspoon minced onion may be added. Good on lettuce, cucumbers, cabbage and all green salads.

5. Grapefruit: To 1 1/2 cup mayonnaise add 1/4 cup grapefruit juice, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar. Marvellous in salad bowl containing lettuce, orange and grapefruit segments and balls of avocado.

6. Cream cheese: Crumble 1/2 package cream cheese in 1 cup French dressing.

7. Roquefort Cheese: Crumble from 2 to 4 tablespoons Roquefort cheese into 1 cup French dressing.

8. Horseradish: To 1/2 cup French dressing add 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish.

9. Olive: To 1/2 cup French dressing add 1 cup olives, sliced thin. Green or ripe olives may be used. Bits of avocado may be added.

10. Pineapple Dressing: Pineapple juice, canned, 1 1/2 cups. Sugar, 1/4 cup. Cornstarch, 2 tablespoons. Egg yolks, 4. Lemon juice, 1/4 cup. Celery salt, 1/4 dash. Salt, 1/4 teaspoon.

1. Heat 1 1/4 cups of the unsweetened pineapple juice over hot water.

2. Mix the remaining 1/4 cup pineapple juice with the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir into the hot juice and cook, stirring constantly until the dressing is clear.

3. Beat the egg yolks and stir them into the dressing slowly, continue cooking and stirring until the dressing is thick.

4. Remove from the heat and add 1/4 cup lemon juice or the amount desired to please the taste. Chill. Whipped cream usually is folded into this dressing at serving time. For fruit salads.

Yield: Approximately 2 cups.

Want to make less expensive cuts of meat more tender and easier to cook? Pound them well or score the meat both sides with a knife. These processes loosen the tendons a bit and release the food juices and flavor. Brown the meat all over quickly in a small amount of fat then cook it at a low temperature until it is tender.

'Certified Performance' New Feature of Tappan Ranges

Cooperation between the gas industry and the Tappan Stove company has produced the new Certified Performance gas range which embodies 22 required performance features, according to an announcement made this morning by Alan Tappan, official of the Tappan Stove company.

"These new C P ranges are the result of the combined effort of research authorities, engineers, market technicians and style designers of the gas industry. They provide the consumer with a range planned along lines of greater efficiency, improved convenience and one assuring better cooking results," Tappan stated.

Some of the outstanding features of this new range are the automatic lighting equipment for all burners which absolutely eliminates the match from the top of the kitchen stove, automatic heat control, scientifically designed burner burners, and thoroughly insulated oven.

For the broiled steak add the larger broiler with its smokeless pans makes the range indispensable. Another feature to be welcomed by the housekeeper is the new type rust-proof top burner which not only simplifies cleaning, but which also eliminates sooty, grimy pan bottoms. Stops, which automatically prevent that messy boiling over, and roller bearings on all utensil drawers are two of the Note to Tom Sawyer: Surfaces to be whitewashed should first be well cleaned and freed of any particles that might scale off. Scrub with a stiff brush or broom. White-wash adheres to moist surfaces better than it does to dry ones. So sponge off the area to be white-washed with cold water.

Heat Nuts

A little heating often will improve the flavor of nut meats in summer. Sprinkle a thin layer of nuts on a shallow pan and heat them for five minutes or so in a moderately slow oven. Cool.

Whipped Cream

It is best to whip no more than two cups of cream at a time. Chill bowl and beater. If the cream is beaten in a warm bowl in a warm place it is apt to turn to butter.

Kitchen Hints

Want some juice-appetizers? Try the following juice combinations: Tomato and clam, tomato and pineapple, grapefruit and orange, grapefruit and grape juice, lemon and cherry, apple and pineapple, prune and orange, raspberry and lemon, and grapefruit and cherry—with a bit of chopped mint.

Brighten up the sun porch this fall by using gaily-colored awning materials for shades on the windows and doors. The material is not expensive. You can tack it on to the regular window shade rollers quite easily. Add fringe as a special decorative touch.

Let the dirt around a potted plant come within half an inch of the top of the pot. Then fill the pot with water every day for the average house plant. If you have unusual plants, ask your florist about the amount of water they need.

For a different appetizer or salad try an alligator pear-tomato combination. Cut both into thin slices, marinate in French dressing and chill for an hour. Sprinkle with lemon juice and serve on salad greens.

Add six whole cloves, one teaspoon of cinnamon and a tablespoon of lemon juice to two cups of dice pineapple, chill for several hours, then remove the cloves at serving time.

Metal teapots sometimes give a "musty" flavor to tea made in them. To prevent this, store a lump of sugar in the pot. When you're ready to use the pot rinse it in boiling water.

To facilitate the removal of frozen foods from refrigerator trays, line each tray with waxed paper before filling it. When the food is frozen, lift it out by the edges of the paper. The paper may then be torn off easily.

Cocktail tidbit: Make one-inch cheese-riced croquettes. Fry them in deep fat. While they are piping hot stick them on wooden picks and arrange them as the outside layer of a tray of assorted canapés.

Does your bathing cap tend to stick together? When it gets dry, rub it with a soft cloth dipped in glycerine.

Cold fish and egg canapés are improved if they are chilled before they are served. Place them on a tray. Cover them with waxed paper and leave them in the refrigerator for at least 30 minutes.

Remove the creak from doors and bureau drawers by rubbing them with hard soap.

Want something especially tasty for picnics around the camp fire? Broil or brown thin slices of ham. Dip each slice in a shallow dish of chili sauce mixed with seasonings and place it inside a split roll. Be sure there are plenty of pickles handy.

Install Modern Automatic GAS HEAT In Your Home

LONG hours of back breaking shoveling certainly doesn't belong in the category of modern household duties. Yet, if you would total up the time spent in tending an out-moded furnace in one winter, you'd be shocked at the many wearisome hours put in. Life is too short — home is too sweet for such household slavery.

This winter, you can remove the shackles of time-worn heating methods forever — by installing modern gas heat. No more fuss or muss. No more teeter-totter temperatures. No more hidden heating costs. The one and ONLY bill for gas heat is no more than the many expenses — fuel and incidental — resulting from old-fashioned methods. Don't spend another winter of your life working at a furnace. Let automatic gas heat take over the job.
